

Dear Madam or Sir,

With this letter, I enthusiastically recommend Amber Aristy to anyone considering her employment.

I first met Amber at the beginning of her professional foray into beverage as an employee of mine for over three years at Holeman & Finch Bottle Shop. During our time together, I watched her transform from eager novice to polished and capable manager/spirits buyer, all while learning the fine art of communicating effectively within/to a team to achieve a common goal. She absorbed knowledge like a sponge and was able to take constructive direction and apply it to her betterment and development. She also has a remarkable talent for informational design and spreadsheets, which aptly demonstrates the organization of her mind and her work.

There are many qualities she possesses that make her a valuable part of any team. Amber's passion for all things beverage, spirits, and particularly whiskey, cannot be overstated. Her evident delight in education of herself and others makes that passion contagious, which has contributed greatly to her success in sales. She has a unique and engaging personality which she brandishes easily in both consumer and buyer interactions. She also exhibits noteworthy integrity and diligence. Amber will persevere with dogged tenacity until the outcome meets expectations.

Any organization would be lucky to have her. If anyone at Brown Forman would like to discuss Amber's qualifications any further, I am available by email or phone.

Sincerely,

Cate Hatch, CS, CSW
